For each of these patients, the authors found that the mean age at onset was 17 years (range 10–25 years), the mean duration of illness was 10 years (range 1–25 years), and the mean age at referral was 27 years (range 17–40 years). The authors also found that the mean age at onset was significantly lower than the mean age at referral ( $P < 0.001$ ).

more (already) planned to have Perry return home (USA, 194-195).

Two more observations concerned countries that suffered major losses during World War II. In the end of October 1945:

But such countries (France, Britain, etc.) the memory is not allowed, that the American had contributed to their ruin. I think it is very hard to forgive to them.

Further, one might think that the fact that the United States had contributed to their ruin should give them a right to demand that the United States should do something to help them.

These two observations, taken together, suggest that the United States was seen as a country that had contributed to the ruin of other countries, and that the United States should do something to help them.

Hungary offers bird flu vaccine project

By Nikko Dizon

THE DEPARTMENT of Foreign Affairs (DFA) said yesterday that Hungary was exploring the possibility of jointly producing with the Philippines a vaccine it claims to have developed against the dreaded bird flu.

In a statement, the DFA said that in a recent meeting with Philippine Ambassador to Budapest Alejandro del Rosario, Hungarian health authorities proposed to build a plant in the Philippines for the production of the bird flu vaccine.

The proposed partnership could bolster the Philippines' defenses in the event of a bird flu pandemic, the DFA said. The Philippines remains free of the avian flu virus that has ravaged poultry industries and killed at least 60 people in some Asian countries, including China and Vietnam.

While the H5N1 strain is not transferable from human to human, the World Health Organization fears the virus could mutate and trigger a deadly pandemic among humans.

Del Rosario has arranged a meeting with the Hungarian Health Ministry's chief medical officer, Dr. Lazlo Bujdoso, and virologist Dr. Istvan Jankovics in line with the DFA's objective of strengthening Philippine preparedness against pandemics through bilateral cooperation, the statement said.

It reported Del Rosario as saying that Hungarian authorities were willing to travel to the Philippines "to share their expertise in bird flu vaccine development and products, as well as to oversee the construction of a production facility."

The envoy added that the Hungarian health experts would also welcome a visit by Filipino scientists to observe current Hungarian efforts in producing the bird flu vaccine.

poll: 6 of 10 Americans now say Bush dishonest

By AP Staff
WASHINGTON — The growing divide between Americans who say President George W. Bush is dishonest and those who say he is not is widening, according to a new poll by the Pew Research Center. The poll, released Tuesday, shows that 60 percent of Americans now say Bush is dishonest, up from 50 percent in a poll last year. The poll also shows that 39 percent of Americans say Bush is honest, down from 49 percent last year. The poll was conducted between Jan. 10 and Jan. 14, 2004, among 1,000 adults, with a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Ex-Saddam deputy dies

BAGHDAD, IRAQ—A WEBSITE run by former top Baath Party members reported Saturday that Izzat Ibrahim al-Douri, the highest-ranking figure from Saddam Hussein's regime still at large, has died. The report followed an e-mail announcing the death, which could not be independently confirmed.

An e-mail sent Friday to a Western news agency in the name of the "Arab Socialist Baath Party-Iraq Command" said al-Douri died at 2:30 a.m. Friday but gave no indication of the cause. Al-Douri had been in poor health for years.

Al-Douri, born in 1942, was one of Saddam's longtime lieutenants and officially the No. 2 man in Iraq's ruling hierarchy when the Baath regime collapsed as US troops occupied Baghdad in April 2003. He was No. 6 on the American "deck of cards" list.

He escaped the US dragnet after the collapse of the regime and had been variously rumored to be in Syria or elsewhere. US officials believed he was a key figure in organizing resistance against the US-led coalition. AP

UN probers grill Lebanon president over Hariri murder

BEIRUT, Nov. 14 — A United Nations investigation committee on Monday grilled Lebanon's president, Emile Lahoud, over the assassination of former Prime Minister Rafik Hariri, a key ally of the president. The committee, which is part of a larger UN investigation into the 2002 bombing, said it was "deeply concerned" by the lack of progress in the investigation. It also said it was "deeply concerned" by the lack of cooperation from the Lebanese government. The committee said it was "deeply concerned" by the lack of progress in the investigation. # PKC officials should resign

By Spencer

PHOTOGRAPH BY SPENCER

The Public Knowledge Campaign (PKC) officials should resign. The organization has been a major force in the anti-nuclear movement, but its leadership has been plagued by internal conflicts and a lack of transparency. The PKC has been accused of mismanaging funds and engaging in unethical behavior. It is time for the current leadership to step down and allow for a fresh start.

Lafayette blamed for low fish catch

Rebs raid Bukalnan cove, take 915

MANILA (Inquirer) — A group of fishermen from the Bukalnan cove in the town of San Juan, Iloilo, filed a complaint with the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) against the Philippine Navy for allegedly raiding the cove and taking 915 fish.

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT AUSTIN
The concept of a lean food business with a focus on a business model is a key.

Doing a job with his class Charles Jones, however, Eric proved on his last day and ending career that excellent. After this kind could be served with good and all things.

"I hope my return home in 1988 is smooth. I'm not after being based in Mexico for some time, and need close reconnaissance and local intelligence, coming to land and foreign marine units separately and," says Eric. There are only a few choices and the rest is a little more or less. I'm not sure if I can.

She's no longer in a party mood

DEAR EMILY,

I have this new group of friends who, for the past several weeks, have been out partying every weekend.

I'm getting quite tired of it. I would spend on party clothes almost every week to look my best, not to mention the money spent on expensive drinks.

I've been a club goer for almost six years now and it has always been the same... partying, dancing, meeting all kinds of people, getting drunk, getting wild... I think it's not for me anymore.

I've had enough and feel I've already graduated from that. I just want out but I don't want my friends to think I'm a killjoy or that I don't know how to make "sabay."

It's all right with me to have a night-out or gimmick occasionally or one weekend of every month.

But the way things are going right now, my friends want to make a career out of it! My boyfriend and I can't have our own dates anymore because it's like we're expected to be with them every single weekend.

It's not easy making up excuses. My guy also does not know how to break away from them because he doesn't want our friends to think we're different from them.

My boyfriend and I could barely save anymore. Its kind of getting out of hand already.

MISS VODKA

Looks like you're all still in your teens or early 20s to be really this serious about gigs and clubbing. You knew these people only recently and already they are running your lives!

But before you despair that you and your boyfriend will be the odd couple in this group, how do you know that some of the others are not as sick and tired of the whole party scene? How do you know that someone else is not quietly trying to get out after realizing how empty everything is—empty camaraderie, empty conversations, empty laughter? That this party scene has not become one big empty thoughtless existence to them, too?

This group seems to have that herd-mentality—aimlessly wandering around, looking happy, chattering endlessly, but not really knowing what's happening.

What is it that makes you and your boyfriend reluctant to leave? Why do you seem stuck and tied to this aimless group? So what if they start badmouthing you?

Do you or your boyfriend owe a big favor to anyone in the group? Do you have an unpaid debt perhaps? Are you beholden to any of them for your jobs? Don't you two have minds of your own? Who cares about what anybody says about anything!

Next time this group plans a weekend outing, tell them you and your boyfriend already have a previous commitment. Don't make detailed excuses. Make your explanation short and sweet. Say there'll always be a next time. And when the next weekend comes, do the same thing.

Don't worry about telling a lie. It's a small white lie and nobody's going to die because of it. Sooner or later they'd realize what you and your boyfriend are trying to tell them.

It's a long life and, who knows, you might still want to get together with this group sometime—but on your own terms! It's a free world. Don't let anyone or any group hold you hostage. If you allow that to happen, nobody's to blame but yourself for your unease or unhappiness. There's only you to point the finger at.

Manila hosts global meet of retail stores

Rustan's is the only Philippine member of the Intercontinental Group of Department Stores

BY JENNIFER TAYLOR IN MANILA

RUSTAN'S HOSTED RECENTLY the 57th Intercontinental Group of Department Stores (IGDS) General Assembly and Convention 2008.

Theme of the annual meeting was "Thinking Beyond Products and Services." The year's meeting discussed the needs of today's rapidly changing market that required a broader, much broader perspective for success to remain innovative and dynamic.

The Intercontinental group is a network seeking to foster global ties and establish close links among delegates.

Rustan's is the only member in the Philippines of the organization, affirming its position as a world-class player in luxury retailing.

The conference included talks by top-level executives such as Yoram Dikshorn, chief president of the IGDS and General of Thailand, and Thomas Loh, managing director and head of the European retail establishment Clippings, London.

Founded in 1948, the IGDS organization runs more than 20 conferences per year in over 100 cities to give members an opportunity to network and exchange information.

Recognizing their corporate social responsibility, all IGDS members agree to be actively involved in addressing the adverse impacts of their business activities on the environment, and to create equal economic opportunities for employees and local communities.

The IGDS currently has 34 members from 55 countries and is the largest organization of its type. Members have a combined annual sales of over $100 billion.
